

Once upon a time there was a teacher named Miss Jones who lived in a blue house. He felt so hungry so she went to buy chicken and the chicken spoke "hands off!!" She looked at her grey cat "Did you said that?" "No!!! it is the chicken." She quickly ran to the chicken market. Then all the chicken spoke "Stop!!" said the chickens.

"Aaaagh" screamed the very scared teacher and she ran as fast as a flash. Then she went to the market as quickly as she could. "Why are you running so fast? it is winter." First a chicken spoke to me! and the man who cooks the chicken laughed.

"Aaaaaaagh" screamed the scared teacher. She ran like a lizard. Soon she came to a pretty blue and green castle where she met a king with a golden crown. The king was sitting in a red and golden chair. "First a shiny red apple spoke to me and then my grey fluffy cat spoke to me and then my good delicious rainbow mine cake spoke to me!" said the teacher. "That is impossible!" said the angry king. "Get out of my blue and green castle!"