

Deep in the dark, peaceful forest stood an old stone cottage. The roof is as grey as an elephant and behind the cottage there's a light, blue river. A path is wiggly like a worm. The window is as yellow as a light bulb. On top of the roof, is a tall chimney passing out clouds of smoke, filling up your nostrils. Around the back, there are big, green bushes with flowers at the top. Green trees sway in the breeze as a bright, white light shines through the windows.