

Surrounded by darkness, every tree looked the same, tall and towering, standing guard over the thick layers of pine needles below. Corridors between the yew trees were steeped in lingering shadows, as labyrinths of vines and thorns covered every path, every step.

Unexpectedly, in the clearing, the trees parted to reveal a marshmallow confectionery gingerbread house. Entering candy glass steps take you closer and closer. Rows of long, lollipop Sours flowered from the apple green grass as jelly baby guards danced in the shimmering Sun rays.