

Pandora

Sitting in the air ship, the pilot announced our soon descent my adrenaline pumped as the seatbelt sign flashed, there was no going back now...

Doors sliding open, I began to hyperventilate my breath stalled my oxygen mask so I tried to wipe it off, but what I didn't know was that it would reveal the secrets of a whole new world. As my comrades stepped out, they looked to their left and right I finally brought up the courage to enter this unknown frontier. Exposing the mysterious landscape, a lush green habitat and humming bird like creatures, I look up and glance at the dream like sky, a pterodactyl that had bird like features travelling in huge herds. Gas giants power the sky like clouds as huge as Saturn deadly like poison.

Taking most of the space on this peculiar planet, lays the towering rainforests, snipping from tree to tree lines the monkey like creature that owns the upper part of this harsh terrain. However, that was not the only vicious creature in the forest, lurking around bushes and waiting for the right moment to strike is the half black panther half wolf, is the tiger wolf. Its life is in the shadows and hunts vulnerable creatures showing no mercy and taking the flesh off right to the bone. Finally, the most fearsome and deadly creature the Titan.
