

Dear Neil,

Thank you for your informative letter, that I recieved on Monday morning. At our school - Quarry Hill Academy, the last few days have been very concerning, as every person has felt utter disbelief at the events that have taken place. In this letter I will outline the key evidence that was left behind, so this outlandish mystery is solved sooner.

As I walked into my classroom, I noticed our resources were covered in a unknown material, which resembled tin coils and three-fingered hand prints all over the window. This mysterious material encased our learning resources, leading us to believe these creatures wanted to find out what school is like on Earth.

Students were particularly interested in a pair of boots with black, rubber soles and a metallic outer layer. As well as this, a cheese grater (well that's what I thought it was) confused us to the core. Some of us speculated these boots may be yours. There was also a suspicious white powder which may have been residue from their enormous space craft.

I hope this evidence will help you close this case, and if you solve it please reply back.
